

The International Law Reports

- ▶ Full coverage from 1919 to the most current rulings
- ▶ Searching, cross-linking and cross-referencing
- ▶ Cases in English from international and national courts worldwide
- ▶ Updated four times a year

The International Law Reports is the only publication in the world wholly devoted to the regular and systematic reporting in English of decisions of international courts and arbitrators as well as judgments of national courts. Justis now provides the first searchable, electronic platform for this material.

Covering all significant cases of public international law from 1919 to the present day, the collection spans from the postwar Treaty of Versailles era to a cyberspace-influenced 21st century, featuring an enormously diverse range of topics along the way, including:

- ▶ international boundaries
- ▶ refugee law
- ▶ war
- ▶ numerous treaties between states
- ▶ state and diplomatic immunity
- ▶ terrorism

It's a small world now.

Once regarded as esoteric, international law has fast become one of the most important areas of law, impacting on the legal systems of every country in the world. And, unlike cases of national law in the UK and Ireland, in which litigators are usually confined to the bar, litigation in international law can be fought in court by solicitors, as well as barristers, wherever it is played out, making the online International Law Reports a crucial and universally relevant research tool.

The International Law Reports are also available in hard copy from Cambridge University Press.

“ The hours I spent going through volume after volume of ILRs are now reduced by an order of magnitude. ”

Professor David J. Bederman, Emory University Law School and US Supreme Court attorney
